Dear Hiring Manager:

I am writing to apply for the Web Developer intern position at FormLabs. My solid technical background stemming from my undergraduate studies in Computer Engineering and my experience as an analyst at Directi coupled with my current master's studies in Information Systems at Northeastern University would enable me to make a substantial contribution to the development team at FormLabs. I have worked on many projects ranging from making web portals to devising virtual reality application and I am confident in my ability to create making innovative applications.

Before my graduate studies, I worked as a research analyst at Directi Web Services where my work responsibilities included monetizing our client's websites and domain names by deploying targeted advertising. At Directi, I increased the revenue of multiple client's web content by more than 200% by carrying out a detailed analysis of click patterns and revamping UX accordingly. Having showcased excellent skills in analysis of web-users, I was trusted to handle prime clients account and I was amongst the few employees who achieved top work scores throughout.

My fascination with web development motivated me to pursue graduate studies at Northeastern University to widen my horizon and add new cutting edge technologies to my skillsets. My coursework here will supplement my previous background to advance my career in software industry particularly because Northeastern focusses on hands on experiential learning.

Apart from academic endeavors, my participation in extracurricular activities including student council (Co-Chair), Soccer (Team Captain), Rotary Club (Volunteer) and in Stand Up Comedy Shows have honed my interpersonal skills and taught me how to manage time and resources efficiently and made me better team player.

The skills I have acquired till now and the myriad projects that I have developed have enabled me to structure my thoughts on how to carve a technical model from a real world scenario. I believe that I possess the necessary vision and technical skills to help build next generation software products that can make a difference. I have set the stage ready to begin my career as a software developer and I would like to begin at FormLabs. The opportunity will be an essential step to my future goals and I am motivated to supersede all the expectations set forth. I look forward to discuss my qualifications further with you.

Sincerely,

Saurabh Salunkhe
